

"No, no, judge!" screamed Estes, but Judge Loving, ordering two negro men who were in the car to stand aside, fired two loads of buckshot into the body of the young man, who died almost as he fell.

Judge Loving, as soon as he saw the men rush towards the body of Estes, said calmly: "It's no use; he's dead. I shot to kill."

Surrendered Himself.
Making no effort to escape, Judge Loving surrendered himself to a magistrate, and was bailed the next morning in the sum of $5,000. At the hearing before the magistrate for bail, Judge Loving is said to have made the following statement, but as there was no stenographer present, the exact words used were not taken down.

"I was informed by Harry Sneed on yesterday (Monday) morning that my daughter, Lizzy, had been driven into Lovington at night by Theodore Estes, she being in an unconscious condition. I restrained myself with great difficulty, hoping that there might be some explanation. Lizzy was sent for, but she did not come, sending word that she was sick. I did not go after her, but sent my wife. I asked her what had happened, and she said that Theodore drove her out, and when about a mile out of town, gave her a drink, and that she knew nothing more. I don't claim that I became crazy, but a frenzy seized me. Every muscle and vein in my body called for vengeance. I sought his life and I took it, and all the powers of hell could not have stopped me."

This statement, which may or may not be correctly quoted, is the only statement made by the defense. A story circulated to the effect that Miss Loving had denied that Estes had wronged her was promptly branded as false by the lawyers for the defense, who counseled their client to remain absolutely silent.

Counsel in Case.
Judge Loving is well known in Richmond, where his sister, Mrs. Corydon Sneed, and his brother-in-law, Mr. John F. Jacob, reside. Mr. Theodore Estes's sister married Mr. John Swanson, a brother of Governor Swanson. Ablest in the case are among the counsel in the State Messrs. Aubrey E. Strode, of Amherst; John L. Lee, of Lynchburg; Walton Moore, of Fairfax; and William P. Barkdale, of Halifax, will defend Judge Loving, and Messrs. Wood Bouldin, Commonwealth's attorney of Halifax; Daniel Harmon, of Charlottesville; and Commonwealth's Attorney Whitehead, of Nelson, will conduct the prosecution.

In an account of a personal difficulty between the prisoner and himself, Judge Bennett T. Gordon, of Nelson, declined to sit in the case, and Governor Swanson appointed Judge William P. Barkdale, of Halifax, to conduct the trial.

Judge Barkdale granted a change of venue on the ground that the prisoner could not move to the State of Nelson county, and designated Houston as the place at which the case will be heard.

It is said that over a hundred witnesses have been summoned by the Commonwealth, and as many by the defense. So it would seem as though the case would consume several weeks.

COUNSEL FOR LOVING WILL NOT DISCUSS CASE.
LYNCHBURG, VA., June 22.—"The defense will be ready for trial when the case is called at Houston Monday," declared Mr. John L. Lee, of counsel for Judge Loving, to-day. "Unless there be something that should prevent us from being ready, which we do not anticipate, we shall certainly press for a trial."

"The defense believes Judge Loving will be vindicated, when all of the facts surrounding the case are known. I do not believe a jury composed of Virginia gentlemen could be found that would under a verdict adverse to my client," continued Mr. Lee. Further than this, Attorney Lee will not discuss the case. He refused to indicate what the line of the defense will be, and this will not become known until it is developed step by step after the case is before the jury.

When asked to make a statement as to the plea that will be made for Judge Loving, Mr. Lee pointed out that no statement had been made by Judge Loving or his counsel since the tragedy, with the exception of the publication of Miss Elizabeth Loving's letter to a young lady friend in Albemarle, which had been incorrectly reported in dispatches from Charlottesville. This silence so long maintained will be continued.

CAUTIOUS OF WATER SUPPLY
Coastal Plain of Virginia Examined by Government.

BY WALTER EDWARD HARRIS.
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 22.—That portion of Virginia lying east of Richmond, or, to be accurate, that portion lying east of a line drawn through Alexandria, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg and Emporia, is known to the Geological Survey as the Coastal Plain of Virginia. The survey has within the past year or two made an exhaustive investigation of the water sources of this section, and the results thereof have from time to time been alluded to in these dispatches.

The survey urges caution in the use of water of many of the springs in Tidewater Virginia. In some sections of this territory the caution is not so much needed. In the greater portion of the territory, however, including about 3,500 square miles, the surface is underlain by beds of sand, clay, marl and loam.

THOMAS BAYARD STATUE UNVEILED IN DELAWARE

UNVEILED STATUE TO THOMAS BAYARD

Former President Cleveland Unable to Deliver His Address.

CEREMONY WAS IMPRESSIVE
Large Crowd Assembled at Wilmington to Honor Great Son.

WILMINGTON, DEL., June 22.—In the presence of the largest crowd that ever assembled at a public function in Delaware a memorial statue to Thomas F. Bayard, secretary of state in President Cleveland's first cabinet, former United States senator and the first American ambassador to the court of St. James was unveiled here this afternoon with exercises of the simplest character. There was no military pageant and the ceremonies were confined to addresses, prayer and the singing of hymns.

The absence of former President Cleveland, who is ill at his home in Princeton, caused many expressions of regret. Mr. Cleveland was to have delivered the principal address and in his absence the address was read by John Cassatt Moore, professor of international law at Columbia University.

Other participants in the ceremonies were: Judge George Gray, of the United States circuit court, and the Right Rev. Leighton Coleman, D. D., bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Delaware.

The weather is clear and warm and great crowds from all parts of the State witnessed the unveiling.

Mrs. Mary Clymer Bayard, widow of the statesman to be honored, arrived here before noon from Washington, accompanied by her daughter. After an invocation by Leighton Coleman and the singing of "This is the Day of the Lord" by the Delaware Singsers Band, Chairman Whitman introduced Judge Gray, who delivered an extended address on the life and character of Mr. Bayard.

The reading of Mr. Cleveland's address by Professor Moore followed, after which the statue was unveiled. The words were drawn by Mrs. Bayard.

Letter by President Roosevelt.
President Roosevelt sent a letter regretting his inability to be present and was represented at the exercises by Hon. Oscar S. Straus, Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

President Roosevelt's letter to Judge Gray was as follows:
"The White House, Washington, June 15, 1907.
"My Dear Judge Gray:—May I, through you, to the committee of the Bayard Memorial Association, convey my regret that I am not able to be present at the unveiling of the statue to Mr. Bayard? I had the good fortune to know him personally, so that my appreciation of what his stainless purity and integrity of character meant in public life is based on personal knowledge. I wish it were in my power to contribute to the tribute which will be paid to his memory."

"With high regards, believe me, sincerely yours,
"THEODORE ROOSEVELT.
"To Hon. General Gray, Wilmington, Del."

Menus will be served at the regular hours all the time, and the "Saratoga" will become, under Mrs. Gill's management, not only a means of transportation, but a hotel as well. The proceeds from the excursion will go to the boys' orphan fund.

SLASHED EACH OTHER
Negroes in Cutting Scrape and One in Critical Condition.
John Reed and Oscar Johnson, both colored, quarreled with each other last night a little after 9 o'clock about some trivial matter. Reed, after the fashion of their kind, proceeded to settle the question at issue with their knives. Reed slashed at Johnson, inflicting a three-inch wound in the left arm and stabbing him in the left side just above the flat rib. Johnson returned the compliment with an eight-inch cut on the forearm and a four-inch cut on the arm.

Reed, who lives at No. 409 North Seventeenth Street, is in a serious condition, and Dr. Woodson, of the City Ambulance Corps, who attended him, had him taken to the Colored City Hospital, where his condition last night was reported to be precarious.

Johnson was not so badly hurt, and he was taken for his night's repose to the First Police Station, where he was made as comfortable as possible.

BROUGHT THEM IN BY BUGGYLOAD

Vigorous Young Men Set Out to Complete List of Y. M. C. A. New Members.

CAMPAIGN IS SUCCESSFUL
Two Hundred Names Added to Roll Within Five Days—Standing of Committees.

The membership campaign, which has been conducted by the Young Men's Christian Association for the past five days, closed last night with an enthusiastic gathering, which reminded those who took part in the contest of the close of the new building campaign last winter. The committee determined to secure 200 new members in five days.

Mr. G. W. Bahke, of the board of directors, engineered the campaign, giving largely of his time and effort to its success. He had as his efficient assistant Mr. Will B. French, the membership secretary of the association. The most vigorous work was done by the committees, a number of the men giving a considerable part of their time to canvassing among their friends for new recruits for the association.

Several firms have assisted in the good work. O. H. Berry and Company, King-an and Company and others making a standing offer to their young men who care to join the association that the firm will pay one-half of the annual fees. As a result of this offer, fourteen men from Berry's store were among the number enlisted at this time.

A conference was held about 7 o'clock yesterday evening. It was found that the committees were fifteen men short of the 200 mark. Two vigorous young men took a horse and buggy and went out and literally "compelled them to come in," bringing men by the hundreds to the association building to sign the blanks of membership. It was about 9:30 P. M. when the two hundredth man signed up, and the meeting broke up with the greatest enthusiasm.

A supper will be given to the new members at the Association building one night this week in order that they may become acquainted with the officers and workers of the Association. Considerable interest has attached to the standing of the committees, who have been working on the membership campaign. The final report of Secretary French shows that the various committees brought in the number of men set opposite the names of the committee chairmen, as follows:

A few minutes later the servant heard a pistol shot, and Mrs. Guy staggered into the dining-room and fell dead on the floor. Dr. Guy was arrested a few minutes later, as he was leaving the house.
